Traditional French cuisine, created with kosher products, can be found at the very Parisian Brasserie du Belvédère, situated in the Etoile quarter (Champs Elysées), between the Arc de Triomphe and the Hotels Concorde-Lafayette and Méridien.

Nothing is missing from the 1930's decor of this charming establishment: mirrors, brass, and woodwork, white tablecloths and silver utensils create a warm and intimate atmosphere year-round, but particularly in the summer when the air conditioning permits you to rest comfortably.

Concerning the cuisine, the Brasserie du Belvédère offers a new menu, specializing in fish - including the unforgettable "Feuillantine Bord de Mer" - and concerning poultry: superb duck dishes, an exceptional house foie gras, and roasted poultry livers. You will also find tournedos Rossini, and the only kosher saurkraut in Paris, served with our famous dill pickles.

The Brasserie de Belvédère is 10 minutes from the Opéra by taxi and three minutes from the Arc de Triomphe.
